Local Ties Fuel Marina Builder's Decision to Open Orange County Office

Southern California marina operators get strong support from industry veteran, Bellingham Marine.

Newport Beach, CA, USA – 25 May 2017 – Southern California is one of the most beautiful and enticing locales in the United States. Endless blue skies, shimmering beaches and some seriously impressive marinas. Bellingham Marine has worked hundreds of projects in the region and has built more than 90% of the new slips added over the last five years.

From Marina del Rey to Coronado, nobody has more local marina design experience than Bellingham Marine. The company has deep ties to Southern California, and those ties are stronger than ever with the company's new office in Newport Beach.

"We believe that the only way for us to do business is by creating local connections, and the Newport Beach office is just another example of this," said Roxie Comstock, Manager of Business Enhancement for Bellingham Marine. "Marina design is a complicated process and having local offices allows us to appreciate the specific requirements and development hurdles that are unique to each region."

Having done business in the area for decades, Bellingham is knowledgeable in dealing with the California Environmental Quality Act, the California Coastal Commission and other local regulatory bodies.

Another advantage for the company is the strong leadership and local connection of Chairman Joe Ueberroth, founder and president of Bellwether Financial Group. Mr. Ueberroth has been actively involved with Bellingham for over 20 years and is highly dedicated to the design and management of quality, customer focused and environmentally friendly marinas.
